Centennial Exhibits by TPS Members celebrating 100 years of continuous operation of the TPS
79 & 81	1 - 2	John	Aalders	Australian Art on postage stamps: a selection	From the early days of Australian Commonwealth stamps, the work from Australian artists, including that by Aboriginal people, has featured on our postage stamps. This display features a selection of releases from pre-decimal issues through to those released in recent times.
Exhibits combined across both frames		John	Aalders	Australian Children's Books	Like a piece of art, a good children's book is greater than the sum of its parts. It is honest, has a sense of wonder, and shows respect for the young child. Featured in this display are three issues from Australia Post of 1985, 1996 and 2002 that focus on Australian Children's books.
80	8	John	Aalders	Australian Postage Stamps and covers of 50 years ago - 1973	This display features all issues from Australia Post released in 1973 and includes first day covers that were made available for each respective issue.

Invited Exhibits
86	87 - 94	Juergen	Saeftel	Tattersall Lottery	Tattersall's George Adams lottery plays a special role for many Australians, which is reflected in the auspicious saying "to have a ticket at Tatts". The lottery was conducted by mail between 1893 and 1987. Of the correspondence, mainly incoming mail has survived; invariably demand mail because the senders were interested in lottery winnings. Underpaid letters, unclear addresses or unregistered items despite containing money led to a variety of instructional markings. An unusual period is the secret private postal network, which was used to circumvent a postal delivery ban from 1902 to 1930. Letters reached the lottery via disguised addresses, with receipt slips or postmarks proving arrival at Tattersalls.
87	95 - 99	Peter	Allan	Tasmania - Revenue History	Operation of the Tasmanian Stamp Duties Act and Regulations 1827 - 1931.
